

WORK GONE WILD

A multi-day program to explore the variety of jobs, work places, training, pay and people who work to maintain our lands, forests, wildlife, water, and park and recreation facilities.

WHO: 8th Grade-High School Students

WHERE: Rocky Mountain National Park, Colorado State University, Barr Lake State Park, Red Rocks Community College, Water Treatment Plants and More

WHY: Students interact with over 50 different Natural Resource Professionals, try on jobs, and build skills.

HOW: We work with a network of over 250 Natural Resource Professionals representing over 98 different organizations and agencies to coordinate a schedule that meets your needs. Contact us about organizing a Work Gone Wild experience for your group.
